Welcome to our courses and activities!

Welcome to the Martinus Centre in Klint!

In this programme you will find an introduction to the Martinus Centre, Klint and an overview of our online and on-site courses and lectures.

The Martinus Centre, Klint is a centre for courses and holidays in the middle of the county of Odsherred's beautiful countryside. Here you can enjoy the peace and quiet of the countryside and the company of other participants while you immerse yourself in the spiritual world picture of the Danish writer Martinus.

In 1935 the centre in Klint was founded by Martinus as Denmark's first holiday camp. It has developed over the years to become a modern centre with facilities for courses, a lecture hall, café, restaurant, camping site and charming holiday homes including summer cottages and pavilions.

There are plenty of opportunities to take part in inspiring conversations – for example, in the café or restaurant – while the surrounding countryside tempts participants to go for walks with others or to reflect quietly. All of this – and the beautiful natural surroundings – form the cosy, physical framework for your stay in Klint.

We strive to develop our digital resources in order to facilitate online learning and participation. We continue our online study group based on a systematic study of The Third Testament – Livets Bog (The Book of Life), vols. 1–5. During the International Weeks, we broadcast all lectures live on our Crowdcast channel.

On our website you can find information about our upcoming events and read Martinus's works in our online library. You can also subscribe to our magazine Kosmos and listen to our English podcast.

Learn more about all our activities in the programme.

We look forward to meeting you!

Martinus and his works

In the little town of Sindal in northern Jutland the Danish writer Martinus (1890–1981) was born out of wedlock to the housekeeper of Kristiansminde, a large farm, and grew up as a foster child of his mother's brother and his wife. They had a large family, but they took loving care of yet another child. Even as a child Martinus felt a close, personal relationship to God. But his God was loving – not strict and punitive, as the local, evangelical priest had taught him. He thus felt a strong connection to a spiritual providence but could not come to terms with the interpretation of Christianity of that time.

A new world picture was born

In his youth Martinus was trained as a dairyman and worked for a number of years in various dairies around the country. In 1917 he moved to Copenhagen where he, among other things, got an office job at a dairy called Enighed. But in 1921 something epoch-making happened to the then 30-year-old man. He had an extensive spiritual experience that gave him permanent intuitive access to life's eternal dimension. This changed the course of his life for ever. The experience enabled him to describe a new, spiritual world picture, which he spent the rest of his life communicating. This world picture expresses both a clear and law-bound connection between the physical and the spiritual world and a positive, loving vision of the evolution and future of the whole of mankind – a completely optimistic view of life.

Great interest in Martinus

During the following decades Martinus worked untiringly and wrote, among other things, a series of books, of which his main work is Livets Bog (The Book of Life). Martinus called his collected works The Third Testament. A continually widening circle of enthusiasts contributed both practically and financially to disseminating his works at home and abroad. This support made it possible to establish the Martinus Institute in Frederiksberg, Copenhagen and the Martinus Centre, Klint in the county of Odsherred, Denmark.

Indefatigably Martinus continued his modest and hard-working life in the service of spiritual science – always in close collaboration with his many friends and other Martinus enthusiasts. Today Martinus's works are translated into over 20 languages and are studied in depth by thousands of people the world over. Before his death in 1981 Martinus handed over his life's work to a fund, which still – with the help of a few employees and a great number of volunteers – keeps his world picture and its dissemination alive.

Learn about Martinus in many ways

At the Martinus Centre, Klint interest in Martinus's world picture is at the centre of our activities. There are many ways of studying Martinus depending on your own wishes. Some people just drop in on the centre's café for a cup of coffee and to hear a lecture, while others study Martinus's spiritual science in depth for weeks or years at a time. In addition, there is accommodation for retreat guests during the spring and autumn.

At the centre we have activities for all tastes in the Scandinavian languages all the year round. Many of our activities take place during the summer half of the year, not least during the school holidays from the end of June to mid-August. For the moment the centre's activities in English take place mainly during the two International Weeks at the end of our summer season. We have also developed our possibilities for offering activities both online and on-site, including an online study group from January to December. Our summer activities include:

Lectures (on-site and online):

During our International Weeks we give daily morning lectures in the Scandinavian languages. These are simultaneously translated into English. There are evening lectures in English. All summer lectures are broadcast via our online Crowdcast channel. We also have a number of free online lectures and courses on our YouTube channel.

Study groups (on-site and online):

The International Courses during the summer offer the possibility for newcomers and more experienced students to join introductory study groups and more in-depth study groups based on Martinus's books and articles. We offer an online study group on Livets Bog (The Book of Life): read more on p. 11. This summer we also offer three on-site study groups in English. Read more information on p. 14–15.

Symbol explanations:

Martinus drew and painted 100 symbols, most of which will be explained in group sessions in English offering the opportunity for participants to put their questions and to study the symbols in depth.

For more information see our website.

Here you can also see Martinus's symbols and read some of his works online.

Online study group in English January–December 2025

The Third Testament – Livets Bog (The Book of Life), vol. 4 Alternate Fridays at 19.00–20.30 CET

In 2025 we will continue our systematic study of Martinus's main work Livets Bog (The Book of Life) by reading volume 4 over 22 sessions. Newcomers are welcome.

The Third Testament – Livets Bog (The Book of Life), vol. 4 consists of one chapter entitled “Eternal Life” and an explanation of the symbol “Life and Death”. It presents an analysis of the eternal life of living beings and covers such topics as: time, space, eternity and infinity; the principle of world redemption; neighbourly love and sexuality; crime and punishment; the genuine and false principle of business; democracy and communism; politics and religion.

The group will meet on Zoom every second week on Friday evenings 19.00–20.30 CET (Central European Time/Copenhagen).

Term dates:

Friday 3rd January–13th June and 22nd August–19th December 2025. We plan to continue with the other volumes after that.

Volume 4 can be purchased in our bookshop. You may also read it online free of charge on our website.

If you would like to enrol or receive further information, please contact Mary McGovern at: mary@martinus.dk

Price: 900 DKK (Danish kroner) for 22 sessions in 2025.

The number of participants is limited.

When your place in the group has been confirmed, you will be sent details of how to pay.

The International Summer Weeks

Saturday 26th July—Saturday 9th August 2025

The six summer weeks are the high season for the activities at the Martinus Centre, Klint, where people interested in Martinus from far and wide fill our camping site, holiday accommodation, teaching facilities, café and restaurant in order to enjoy one another's company, the countryside and the many and various activities. The last two weeks of these six are the International Weeks with participants from around the world.

Every morning you can listen to a lecture based on the theme of the week, and every afternoon there are sessions in which Martinus's symbols are explained and discussed. In the two International Weeks the lectures are simultaneously interpreted into English, German and Dutch. You may also enrol in a study group where various texts by Martinus are discussed.

We reserve the right to make changes to the programme. On the following pages you can find information about the study groups and the course programmes. You decide for yourself how you will divide your time between study, relaxation, quiet reflection and being social.

Practical information

Saturday is the arrival and departure day. The other days are course days with lectures, café seminars and study groups.

Payment for on-site courses:

As a course participant you can buy a study card that is valid for one week or one day at a time. The price is 1,400 DKK for a week and 275 DKK for one day. The price of a single lecture is 100 DKK.

Café seminar:

We begin the teaching with a café seminar about the theme for the week every Sunday at 11.00 am—12.30 pm in the Restaurant Terrassen.

Meals and accommodation:

You can rent one of the centre's holiday houses or rooms or live in the camping site. See accommodation and prices on p. 24—29. Lunch and dinner are served in the Restaurant Terrassen. Breakfast supplies can be purchased in Café Klint.

Payment for online lectures and study groups

Payment for our online lectures is made on our Crowdcast channel. Price: 60 DKK per lecture.

Study groups

The Martinus Centre's study groups offer you the possibility to study Martinus's ideas and texts in depth and discuss them with other participants from around the world.

Summer Week 5

Saturday 26th July–Saturday 2nd August

THEME: Christianity as science

Religious wars and political power struggles cause many to lose inspiration and contact with humane ideals. Martinus describes the lost connection with the soul's longings and goals as a kind of mental illness. How can we re-establish our connection with humane ideals? Can we use logic and cosmic analysis to connect our brain with our heart?

	Morning lecture 9.30 am	Symbol explanations 4 pm	Evening programme 7 pm
Sun. 27th July	Reincarnation and justice by Jens Christian Hermansen	The basis analysis of all life Symbol 41, 8-11, 4	The integration of the masculine and feminine poles by Pernilla Rosell

Summer week 6

Saturday 2nd August–Saturday 9th August

THEME: A loving view of life

Love is the alpha and omega of life. Everything in nature is part of a well-functioning whole that is a joy and blessing of all living beings. The purpose of human evolution is to learn what love is and how to become a cooperating unit in this cosmic masterpiece. Every detail in the fate drama of daily life is a jigsaw piece in this awakening. We need a view of life that provides guidance about the way of being that unites us in love.

	Morning lecture 9.30 am	Symbol explanations 4 pm	Evening programme 7 pm
Sun. 3rd August	The profound longing for love by Inger Sørensen	World impulses and the emergence of the human being Symbol 1, 87, 39, 89, 3, 23	Mental sovereignty by Sören Grind
Mon. 4th August	Birth and death are merely transitions by Søren Olsen	The basic energies and our health Symbol 12, 46, 59-66	The granting of prayers by Mary McGovern
Tues. 5th August	The creation of individuality by Karin Jansson	The human being and the mystery of life Symbol 2, 37, 32	An evening of art
Wed. 6th August	A world for everyone by Pernilla Rosell	An international world kingdom Symbol 27, 81, 24-26, 42	Towards a world filled with kindness by Tine Rask
Thur. 7th August	Forgiveness and the road to freedom by Ole Therkelsen	Through death and the evolution of consciousness Symbol 6, 90, 93-96	The threads of fate from lifetime to lifetime by Tryggvi Gudmundsson
Fri. 8th August	The intimate relationship to God by Anne Pullar	Animal and human thought climates Symbol 33, 66	Entertainment

The Restaurant “Terrassen”

At the Martinus Centre, Klint, you can buy delicious plant-based meals in the Restaurant “Terrassen” (The Terrace), and enjoy your meals in the restaurant’s warm and relaxed atmosphere.

We use predominantly fresh, organic and biodynamic produce and prepare the food from scratch. The food is plant-based, reflecting Martinus’s thoughts about love for animals, our own heath and the common responsibility we have for the planet.

Café Klint

The café at the Martinus Centre, Klint is plant-based and open for visitors during the summer season.

Our café is also open when there are courses, lectures and other arrangements throughout the year. We serve hot and cold organic drinks, fruit, snacks and cakes. On days when there are courses and on other special occasions you can also buy lunchtime sandwiches, cakes and so on produced by the restaurant’s kitchen. We also sell breakfast supplies.

Summer conference:

The roads of love

Saturday 9th August, 10:00–16:00/10am–4pm CET

We end the summer season at the Martinus Centre, Klint on the last Saturday with a festive gathering in celebration of Martinus's world picture. The Summer Conference is an invitation to all those in Scandinavia and the rest of the world who are interested in Martinus's work to gather once a year to focus on a topical theme. Everyone is very welcome to participate in the conference, which, among other things, includes speeches, the opportunity to meet old friends and make new ones, music and an abundance of cakes in Restaurant Terrassen.

Moderator: Jens Christian Hermansen.

Price: 440 DKK

Lunch, coffee, tea, cakes and dinner are included in the price.

The conference will take place at the Martinus Centre, Klint. You may also take part online via our Crowdcast channel.

Volunteering

Voluntary, unpaid work plays an important role at the Martinus Centre, Klint. As a volunteer you work with tasks you yourself have chosen. You also get a co-worker discount and lots of time to enjoy being part of a unique and lively meeting place

A particular characteristic of the Martinus Centre, Klint is that most of the work is done by voluntary, unpaid co-workers. There are always lots of jobs that need to be done, for example, teaching, administration, cleaning, cooking, gardening and maintenance. There is something for all tastes and levels of skill, and our co-workers are just as varied as their tasks.

You can have a major say in the work you do

As a volunteer you have a major say in which tasks you undertake. At the same time, you contribute to creating the very special and loving atmosphere that characterises the centre.

At the centre we all work so as to give one another – course participants, guests and co-workers – a pleasant, enriching experience. In this way we all take part in making the Martinus Centre, Klint the very special course centre that it is.

Become a volunteer!

Accommodation for course participants, guests and people on retreat

The Martinus Centre, Klint has many cosy houses, flats, summer cottages and rooms, which we rent out to our course participants and guests during the spring, summer and autumn. During the summer season you may also camp on the Centre's camping site.

The course participants can always rent accommodation at the Martinus Centre. During the high season the centre's accommodation and camping site are reserved for course participants, and you must reserve your accommodation in advance.

Outside the high season we also have space for guests on retreat who want to immerse themselves in the great questions of life – or who just need a break from daily life.

Types of accommodation at the Martinus Centre, Klint

We have several different categories of accommodation at various prices, including houses, flats, single rooms with or without a kitchen and toilet.

The stated accommodation prices are per week and do not include the study card that is obligatory in connection with your stay during the six summer weeks. You may bring your own bed linen etc. or hire it from Reception.

All types of accommodation have their own kitchen with the exception of Bondehuset, Svinget and Sindal, which all have shared kitchen facilities. All beds are supplied with woollen blankets, pillows and duvets. All prices are per week.

Arrival and departure

The summer course weeks run from Saturday to Saturday. On arrival you have access to your accommodation after 2 pm on Saturday; on departure you must vacate your accommodation by 11 am.

You hand in the key and any bed linen etc. to Reception on your day of departure.

Cleaning – do it yourself or pay for it

A cleaning cost will be added to your bill: 500 DKK for a single room and 600 DKK for a house or double room. If you choose to clean your house yourself, the cost will be deducted from your bill. If you have chosen to clean your room yourself, but don't clean your room before departure, we will charge a fee of 600 DKK.

Our bookshop

The Martinus Institute is responsible for preserving, translating and publishing Martinus's collected works, The Third Testament.

All Martinus's books in English can be purchased in Reception at the Martinus Centre, Klint or from the Martinus Institute's internet bookshop: shop.martinus.dk.

Most of them are also available online at our website:

www.martinus.dk under "Read Martinus's works".

The magazine Kosmos

The magazine Kosmos provides information about Martinus and his world picture. The magazine analyses and discusses how a new humane world culture is gaining influence in people's daily lives and in all areas of life including, for example, natural science, technology and economy as well as art, philosophy, religion and literature. The English edition of Kosmos is published online and is free of charge. You can read it here.

The Martinus Cosmology Podcast

On this website you will find free podcasts in English on all kinds of spiritual topics related to the main issues of Martinus's world picture:

Support our work

The Martinus Centre, Klint and the Martinus Institute are to a great extent based on the principle of giving. Every year we receive very many gifts, partly in the form of voluntary work on a large scale and partly in the form of monetary gifts and legacies. The gifts that we receive ensure that we can continue and develop our many activities and tasks, such as the publication of Martinus's original works and their translations, information, teaching, the digitalisation of the works, the maintenance of buildings, the renewal of furnishings and installations etc.

See here how you can support our work in the form of monetary gifts as well as through legacies and inheritancies.

Visit the Martinus Institute in Copenhagen

You are welcome to visit the Martinus Institute on Mariendalsvej, Frederiksberg, Copenhagen. Here you can see Martinus's historical flat which has been preserved as a museum. Visitors are welcome to see the environment in which Martinus spent most of his time and spent many hours writing his cosmic analyses, conducting meetings with his co-workers, receiving guests from home and abroad etc. The flat is preserved in the same form as it had when he used it with his typewriter, furniture and inventory; some of his original symbols still hang on the walls.

We kindly ask you to contact the Institute in advance to arrange a time for your visit by e-mail: info@martinus.dk or by phone: +45 38 38 01 00.
